Introducing the INTERFACE Community of Practice
A Hub for Collaboration and Learning

We are happy to announce the launch of the INTERFACE Community of Practice (CoP), a dynamic platform designed to foster collaboration, knowledge sharing, and innovation in vocational education and training (VET).

WHAT IS THE INTERFACE COMMUNITY OF PRACTICE (COP)?

The INTERFACE CoP is an organized group of VET professionals, educators, stakeholders, and experts who come together to engage in collective learning and exchange best practices in key areas of transversal skills development. It serves as a hub for networking, mutual support, and continuous learning, with a shared goal of advancing VET practices and addressing the challenges faced by VET providers in a rapidly changing landscape.

HOW TO GET INVOLVED

We invite all VET professionals, educators, stakeholders, and experts to join the INTERFACE Community of Practice and contribute to our collective efforts to enhance vocational education and training across Europe. Whether you're looking to share best practices, seek advice, or collaborate on projects, the CoP provides a supportive and inclusive environment for learning and collaboration.

KEY FEATURES AND BENEFITS OF THE INTERFACE-COP

- Shared Interest: The CoP focuses on key domains of interest, including transversal skills development, sustainable economic regeneration, and post-COVID-19 service provision realities. Members engage in discussions, activities, and knowledge sharing to deepen their understanding and expertise in these areas.
- Membership: The CoP is open to all organizations and individuals with a commitment to VET and a desire to contribute to its advancement. Initially, members include participating organizations and local stakeholders engaged in the project, with plans to expand membership to other professionals in the field.
- Engagement: Members actively participate in joint activities, discussions, and collaborative work to achieve innovation in CVET. By sharing experiences, insights, and resources, they support each other in addressing common challenges and driving positive change in the VET sector.
- Relationships: Through ongoing interaction and collaboration, relationships are naturally built among CoP members, fostering a sense of community and enabling mutual learning and growth.
